

Sales Job Scam Signals

Sales job scam signals checklist covering upfront fees, vague company identity, pressure to decide, personal payment asks, too-good pay claims, and no interview substance.

<https://accountexecutivejobs.com/blog/sales-job-search/sales-job-red-flags>

The infographic is titled "Sales Job Scam Signals" and is presented in a clean, modern style with a light blue and white color palette. It features a header with the "Account Executive Jobs" logo and a "Candidate safety" tag. A "Scam signals" button is located in the top right corner. The main content is organized into a grid. On the left, a large box contains the title "Sales Job Scam Signals" and a subtitle "Some opportunities are not bad sales jobs. They are not real jobs." To the right of this box is a 2x3 grid of six numbered items, each with a colored icon (01-06) and a brief description of a scam signal. At the bottom, a light blue banner contains the statement "A legitimate employer does not need you to pay to be hired." and the website "AccountExecutiveJobs.com".

Account Executive Jobs
Candidate safety

Scam signals

Sales Job Scam Signals
Some opportunities are not bad sales jobs. They are not real jobs.

- 01 Upfront fees
You are asked to pay for training, leads, equipment, or access.
- 02 Vague company identity
No clear legal name, domain, customers, or hiring manager.
- 03 Pressure to decide
You are rushed before compensation and role details are clear.
- 04 Personal payment asks
Requests for banking, gift cards, crypto, or payment apps.
- 05 Too-good pay claims
Huge earnings promises without quota, attainment, or plan rules.
- 06 No interview substance
The process skips buyer, product, manager, and territory details.

A legitimate employer does not need you to pay to be hired.

AccountExecutiveJobs.com

Use this reference

Read the full guide for the context behind this visual. The original illustration and its source belong together when you share it.

Notes